A pattern appears to emerge in the distribution of divine weeping in Jeremiah. We need an answer for those who sent us. I'm beginning to wonder if, by the lack of response to many of these questions Chabad is truly interested in educating in Judaism; or is Chabad as knowledgeable and committed as it claims to be.

In this season of gift giving, prophets like Isaiah and Mary call us to be mindful. The language used to describe the weeping adds to the extravagant presentation of these sincere and secret tears. I think the people of this world would do good to realize that judgment and salvation for some is coming. Their road is hard, and no one really listens to . That is now becoming a thing of the past.
