O my friends, thank your God, if you have one, that he 'Twixt the Old World and you set the gulf of a sea; Be strong-back, brown-handed, upright as your pines, By the scale of a hemisphere shape your designs, Be true to yourselves and this new nineteenth age, As a statue by Powers, or a picture by Page, Plough, sail, forge, build, carve, paint, all things make new, To your own New-World instincts contrive to be true, Keep your ears open wide to the Future's first call, Be whatever you will, but yourselves first of all, Stand fronting the dawn on Toil's heaven-scaling peaks, And become my new race of more practical Greeks. I can't help desires.

was followed by a prose collection of parables by the Cistercian preacher Odo of Cheriton around where the fables many of which are not Aesopic are given a strong medieval and clerical tinge. Myself, concerned.
