As his bride, Lucie, was about to be sold down the river, Thornton Blackburn planned a daring—and successful—daylight escape from their Louisville masters. A true story that reads much better than fiction. Karolyn Smardz Frost is an internationally recognized archaeologist and historian. Lost, that is, until a chance archaeological discovery in downtown Toronto. A short distance down the quay, a steamboat gently rocked at its moorings. Karolyn Smardz Frost is internationally recognized for her work in public archaeology and history. I got the impression that in writing this book Karolyn Smardz-Frost believes that the time this book was set was sufficiently long ago to leave out some of the more humane feeling one would expect in the writing of the book. Canada's defense of the Blackburns set the tone for all future diplomatic relations. A sparkling biography of the poet and artist Edward Lear by the award-winning biographer Jenny Lear: A Life of Art and Nonsense.
